

anchored mines in the regular channels for neutral shipping. Nothing is more dangerous than this work of mine-ed that the seaplane has been usefully employed as an additional help in detecting the presence of clusters of mines (see page 7.)