

The Flight International Official Directory of Commercial Aviation in the CIS

Produced in association with MAK

Interstate Aviation Committee

The airline and aerospace industries of the former Soviet Union offer immense potential. Yet there remain major hurdles to be overcome in doing business in the region. Not least, there is a serious lack of basic information about the mass of aviation organisations, airlines, airports, design bureaux and production plants which are spread throughout the region.

This compact directory makes the most concerted effort yet to lay down a framework for the industry. It contains a wealth of contact details, names, titles and numbers, from the CIS and the Baltic Republics, which will go some way towards easing the dialogue between East and West.

The directory covers areas such as:

Biographies of key CIS aviation industry personnel
 ● State services and regulatory bodies ● Airlines and airports ● Aviation industry ● Aviation services ● Aviation museums ● Aviation press and media ● Banks and insurance companies ● Research and test sites ● Service companies and overhaul/ maintenance companies ● Training

- 3000 contact names with telephone and fax numbers
- More than 700 airline and airport companies
- More than 200 aerospace companies, maintenance operations and research centres

Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Kazakshtan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Russian Federation, Tadjikstan, Turkmenistan, Ukraine, Uzbekistan, and Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania.
