CHANGI EXHIBITION CENTRE, SINGAPORE

The world of aerospace is moving to Asia-Pacific.
Make it your business to be there.

Recent years have seen a significant movement of both the aerospace market and industry to the Asia-Pacific. As aerospace companies in the west merge or sometimes disappear, new projects and partners are developed in Asia.

This migration is continuing to gain impetus. Forecasts are that the region's commercial aircraft market will grow to 3,423 aircraft worth US$340 billion in the next 20 years, and that the Asia-Pacific will account for 50% of all international schedule passengers by 2010.

In addition, the region's military spending has increased 15% since 1992 and is continuing to grow.

Asian Aerospace is the only truly international show that brings you all the region's key decision makers. With visitors from 67 countries attending in 1996 and the '98 show guaranteed to be even more influential, make it your business to be there by calling:
