

You'll be amazed
how much power
the LF500 Series Turbofan now has behind it.

When you fly with the ALF502R or LF507, you're flying with one of the strongest power sources in regional aviation: the people of AlliedSignal.

We've invested all of our resources and millions of dollars to make the ALF502R and LF507 true world-class power plants.

Known as the Extended Reliability Package, or XRP, this commitment is designed to provide our operators with major improvements in reliability, durability and cost-of-ownership.

But we're not about to stop now. Our work on the LF500 Series won't slow down until it's the best engine it can possibly be.

It all adds up to one very powerful commitment for our regional airline customers.
