

October 4, 2010

Light bulbs last 60 years.

Calculus is taught in the first grade.

An 80-year old wins the heavyweight title.

And Saab remains the premiere turboprop flying.

Saab Expendables Supply Program. We may not be making airplanes any longer. But Saab is still making sure our airplanes remain the finest ones flying. In the past year, we've spent countless hours developing new support programs. For example, Saab's Expendables Supply Program allows customers to lock into a two-year contract for specific expendables at a significantly reduced price. You benefit from volume discounts, a guaranteed annual cost for vendor and proprietary parts, and working with Saab as a convenient single source. Just what you'd predict from the industry's premiere supplier of innovative ideas. www.saabaircraftleasing.com

Maintaining the finest fleet in the industry.

SAAB