in the airport building

Second only to the pleasure of flying is the pleasure of eating—with the important proviso that the cuisine and surroundings must be right.

● The ideal headquarters for the private owner or Airline or Charter Operator. No landing fees for private owners—Restaurant—Snack Bar—Customs Facilities—Social Amenities—Housing—Maintenance—Repairs—and every comfort that the Modern Man can look for.

Hence the Gatwick restaurant, where M. Novelli provides a cuisine second to nothing in the West End, from early morning until no one else is hungry—with a free view of the aviation thrown in for those who dine.

Or, for peckish souls, there is a snack bar which contrives to serve something as sustaining as a full meal in the time it takes a waiter to write down your order. So there is no excuse for anyone taking the air with anything but a well-lined stomach and a happy frame of mind.
