AIR/SEA RESCUE

The general capabilities of the helicopter have often been demonstrated during recent years. With the rescuing of wounded, the sick, or the stranded, from otherwise inaccessible places, the helicopter has frequently proved to be the only efficient answer in cases of emergency. The "Bristol" Type 171 is a 4/5 seater helicopter designed to permit optimum utilisation in civil, industrial or military spheres. With a sound basic design, it provides full scope for modification to suit specialist requirements. Although Type 171 is the first "Bristol" helicopter, an unexcelled record of forty years of aeronautical experience is the background to its design and construction.
